Film Flashback... BATMAN Premiered on 6/23/1989

BATMAN'S been around so long we've had many different first encounters with the character. For some, it was the action comic book's masked superhero called THE BATMAN, created by artist Bob Kane & writer Bill Finger, that hit newsstands Mar. 30, 1939 in Detective Comics #27, leading to two 1940's film serials. For others, it was 20th Century Fox's ABC-TV action comedy series (1966-68) starring Adam West or Fox's 1966 movie parody with Cesar Romero as The Joker.

It wasn't until June 23, 1989 that the next BATMAN movie opened, finally taking the character seriously. Directed by a young Tim Burton, it starred Michael Keaton as Batman/Bruce Wayne & Jack Nicholson as The Joker. Its storyline told how Wayne saw his parents murdered in Gotham City and grew up dedicated to fighting crime.

The film's production companies -- Warner Bros., Guber-Peters & Polygram -- took a big chance on Burton. His first features, PEE-WEE'S BIG ADVENTURE (1985) & BEETLEJUICE (1988), had attracted attention, but were smaller than BATMAN, which cost a then hefty $35 million. Screendollars' columnist & video voice Martin Grove recalls having Burton and producer Jon Peters as guests at the time on his cable TV talk show on Movietime, which later became E!

Batman (1989)

When asked what he'd done before his first films, Burton confided he'd been a waiter in a medieval theme restaurant in Burbank -- prompting Peters to interrupt with a smile, "And if this picture doesn't work, you'll be a waiter again!"

Happily, Burton's directing career took off as BATMAN opened to $40.5 million and did $251.2 million domestic. It spawned two sequels: BATMAN RETURNS (1992), reteaming Burton & Keaton and adding Danny DeVito as a new villain, Penguin ($162.9 million) & BATMAN FOREVER (1995), directed by Joel Schumacher with Val Kilmer as Batman and two new villains -- Tommy Lee Jones as Harvey Two-Face & Jim Carrey as Riddler ($184.1 million). Schumacher's 1997 reboot BATMAN & ROBIN, starring George Clooney, did $107.4 million.

Christopher Nolan's dark BATMAN BEGINS (2005) starred Christian Bale and did $371.9 million worldwide. Nolan's THE DARK KNIGHT ($1 billion/2008) & THE DARK KNIGHT RISES ($1.1 billion/2012) followed.

Now moviegoers are eagerly awaiting WB's franchise reboot, THE BATMAN, opening Mar. 4, 2022. Directed by Matt Reeves ("WAR FOR THE PLANET OF THE APES"), it stars Robert Pattinson as the Caped Crusader then in just his second year fighting crime.

SBA to process most aid applications for music venues and theaters by early July, Sen. Hagerty says (CNBC)

Last week, Senator Bill Hagerty from Tennessee met with Isabel Guzman, the Head of the U.S. Small Business Administration to get an update on the status of the rollout of the Shuttered Venue Operators Grant program. On June 15, Hagerty and 163 other members of Congress sent a letter to Guzman expressing frustration over the slow pace of awarding grants. At that point, fewer than 100 venues had been awarded grants out of more than 14,000 which had applied, with 99% of their applications still under review, almost six months after the emergency relief program had been enacted. According to Hagerty, the Congressional letter and public outcry appears to have "done the job." Guzman reported to Hagerty that the SVOG program "had her full attention," and that "most applications will be processed by early July."

As of this past Monday 1,445 grants had been awarded, with 5,853 under review and 7,118 still waiting their turn. For some theatres, the delay in receiving this support has postponed their ability to make necessary repairs and upgrades, such as installing reclining seats in auditoriums and investing to be able to offer beer & wine and enhanced concessions. Offering such amenities may prove to be critical in luring back moviegoers and operating profitably.

Amazon's Planned Purchase of MGM Faces FTC Scrutiny (Wall Street Journal)

Amazon must leap over a new regulatory hurdle in its planned acquisition of MGM Studios. The Federal Trade Commission will review the transaction, combining this new merger with its existing, wide-ranging antitrust investigation into Amazon's business practices. The Biden Administration's new appointee as Chairwoman of the FTC is Lina Kahn, who has been critical of Amazon, among other tech giants. Khan published an article in the Yale Law Review arguing that the application of U.S. antitrust law has failed to properly restrain the online retailer. While MGM is no longer one of the largest Hollywood studios, Khan's FTC may argue that Amazon's further expansion across many markets represents a threat to fair trade and commerce in all segments where it competes.

AMC Theatres Starts to "Play on Offense" Despite $5.5B Debt Load (Hollywood Reporter)

AMC's CEO Adam Aron has emerged as a vocal spokesman for his company in interviews with the entertainment and financial press, touting a feel-good turnaround story for his circuit after the dark days of the pandemic. The AMC story has been a hot topic in particular with investors, as the company's stock price has shot up from trading at $1.98 per share on January 5th to a closing price on Friday at $54.06 – a whopping 2750% rise in less than six months.

In an interview earlier this month with investment YouTuber Trey Collins, Aron suggested that AMC was ready to "play on offense again" after raising new capital by issuing new shares to eager investors after the run up in their stock price. Industry experts are predicting that the financial strains from the pandemic will result in individual theatres and theatre circuits changing ownership. For example, AMC is reported to have reached an agreement to take over the operations at two of L.A.'s prime theatres, The Grove in West Hollywood and The Americana in Glendale. Both locations had been operated by Pacific Theatres until April when their parent company Decurion Corp. announced that they were ceasing operations and that their Pacific Theatres and ArcLight Cinemas locations would close permanently. Many financial analysts are encouraging AMC to focus their newfound financial resources on paying off some of the $5.5B in debt that the exhibitor amassed over the last ten years, when it was active in acquiring theatres and expanding its footprint.

Tribeca Festival Draws Solid Crowds In Person And Online
For Covid Comeback Edition (Deadline) and Toronto Film
Festival Lineup Includes Alanis Morissette Doc, 'Dune,' and 'Last Night in Soho' (Variety)

The Tribeca Film Festival was held earlier this month, representing the first major film festival in N. Am. to resume inperson screenings after 15 months of upheaval wrought by the COVID-19 pandemic. Organizers are pleased with the results, with the festival having drawn 100,000 attendees in-person and an additional 115,000 online participants who purchased tickets to watch premieres through Tribeca's online platform. While the online channel was forced by the pandemic, the hybrid in-person/online festival now appears to be here to stay. Tribeca 2021 was the largest year in the 19-year history of the festival, with Tribeca 2019 having drawn 140,000 in-person attendees without offering the opportunity for remote viewers to watch movies online. Other major festivals appear ready to follow suit, with the upcoming Toronto International Film Festival announcing that this year's event in September will include full programs in-person and online, a first for TIFF. Festival director Joana Vicente explained, "We believe that digital access is an important part of providing accessibility to audiences and will be vital to the future of film festivals. This inclusivity across all our offerings helps to ensure that, no matter where you are located, you can participate in the Festival."

MARTIN GROVE'S Hollywood Report

With the Golden Globes on an enforced hiatus next January, it was only a matter of time until another group started moving in.

The first signs came in mid-May when the Critics Choice Association set 1/9 for its 27th annual awards show. The date immediately had Hollywood insiders recalling how for many years early January was when the Globes took place at the Beverly Hilton Hotel. Recent reports that CCA officials were seen checking out the BH ballroom suggest CCA may see a future for itself as the new uncontroversial successor to the Globes.

There aren't a lot of groups that have what it takes to do that, but CCA does. It's no stranger to awards marketers, studios & contenders, having bestowed film & TV awards for 26 years (pictured), and it already has a national live telecast deal in place with The CW Network. It also helps that CCA's been well regarded in Hollywood for many years under CEO Joey Berlin.

Unlike HFPA's obscure members, many CCA critics & reporters are well known to publicists & celebs. Perhaps the worst criticism of the critics is that they hand out too many awards -- but in Hollywood that's nothing to complain about!

F9's record setting pandemic box office launch isn't today's only good news.

Universal/Original Film's success hammers home how quickly & well moviegoing's recovered this summer. Because "F9's" not streaming for about six weeks, part of its audience didn't stay home to watch it on the couch. If F9 had underperformed, that would have signaled serious concerns about moviegoers' comfort level with cinemas.

We had an indication that younger moviegoers were eager to get back to theatres when Paramount/Platinum Dunes' A QUIET PLACE 2 opened to $47.5M. But a horror thriller's appeal isn't broad enough to make it the right film to project moviegoing's future.

F9 (pictured), however, has mainstream appeal. On Friday's tracking its best first choice scores were from +25F, followed by +25M (one point less) & -25M (two points less). The lowest score was -25F (10 points below +25F).

The message F9 conveys is that moviegoers aren't hesitating to return to theatres if they're playing films they want to see. Studios that continue to hedge their event film bets by doing post-pandemic day & date streaming, now risk leaving money on the theatrical table.

| Searching for Mr. Rugoff (Ira Deutchman) This is the story of Donald Rugoff, who was the crazy genius behind Cinema 5, the mid-century theater chain and film distribution company. Rugoff was a difficult (some would say impossible) person but was also the man who kicked art films into the mainstream with outrageous marketing schemes and pure bluster. Rugoff's impact on cinema culture in the United States is inestimable, and his influence on the art film business—from the studio classics divisions to the independent film movement to the rise of the Weinsteins—is undeniable.   | NR   | 94   | Flat (1.85 : 1)   | Theatrical Only  |
| All The Streets Are Silent (Greenwich Entertainment) In the late 80s and early 90s, the streets of downtown Manhattan were the site of a collision between two vibrant subcultures: skateboarding and hip hop. Narrated by Zoo York co-founder Eli Gesner with an original score by legendary hip-hop producer Large Professor (Nas, A Tribe Called Quest), All the Streets Are Silent brings to life the magic of the time period and the convergence that created a style and visual language that would have an outsized and enduring cultural effect.  | NR   | 89   | Flat (1.85 : 1)   | Theatrical/Virtual(45 Day Window)                      |

| White as Snow ('Blanche comme neige') (DaDa Films/Cohen Media Group). AKA: Pure as Snow. Claire, a young woman of great beauty, arouses the uncontrollable jealousy of her stepmother who goes so far as to plan her murder. Rescued at the last moment by a mysterious man who takes her in on his farm, Claire decides to remain in the village, a decision that will awaken the emotions of its inhabitants Soon seven men will fall under her spell! For her, it is the beginning of a radical emancipation that is both carnal and emotional. The emblematic fable is recast as an erotic comedy and modernized by Anne Fontaine, who subverts its references with her usual elegance. It is the portrait of a new heroine who awakens to life in this sensual and erotic tale. | NR                    | 112    | Flat (1.85 : 1)                                 | Limited                  |
